FOR RENT-ROOMS.

There will be an informal dance at the Country club Thursday evening.

Invitations have been received in Topeka from Doctor and Mrs. Horace W. Parsons of Wamego-on-the-Kaw for the marriage of their daughter Julia Jessie to Professor Oscar Loefgren, head of the department of plane of Bethany college, Lindsborg, which will take place Monday, August 12. Professor Loefgren formerly lived in Topeka and has many acquaintances here. He will leave with his bride immediately after their wedding for New York form where they ding for New York from where they will sail for Europe to spend a year in Berlin where Professor Loefgren will continue his study of the planoforte.

THE NATURE FAKER IN THE GAR-DEN. Wilbur D. Nesbit in the Chicago Post:

Wilbur D. Neshit in the Chicago Post:
Some string beans, being given a broken string to climb upon, lifted it from the ground, carried it to a fence and along the fence to a small tree. One of the vines climbed the tree with the string,
grew some string beans and tied them
in knots about the twigs, fastening the string with them.

in knots about the twigs, fastering the string with them.

Another bed of string beans being neglected for more than a week by the gardener, took a peevish revenge. When the gardener went to pick them he found that they had unraveled all their strings. It is interesting to watch the solicitude and kindliness with which a family of onlons help each other. Often the little onlons will find it impossible to push through the hard earth, and then the onions will find it impossible to push through the hard earth, and then the stronger ones will aid them.

A crop of white potatoes had been extremely backward. The gardener investigated, and to his surprise found that they were so arranged that their eyes were looking down into the ground. Carefully he changed their positions, and then they saw what was expected of them given to running across the street. The other morning the gardener heard the child shouting in alarm and ran out to child shouting in alarm and ran out to learn what had gone wrong. He found that the lad had gone across the street again, but that this time a pumpkin vine had followed him and was clasping him ahout the ankles, thus preventing his going any farther.

The same amail how lay down to sleep

The same small boy lay down to sleep on the grass and soon the sun was so high that its rays fell upon the face of the little one. A rubber plant nearby promptly stretched itself so as to make a shade over the sleeping toddler.

The Stay-at-Homes have their trou-bles reading letters from the Gad-Abouts who write about sleeping un-der blankets every night, but they get even when the Gad-Abouts return from their cool resorts and strike town
